The census date is an important deadline for students regarding their enrollment and financial obligations. It is the final date by which you can withdraw from a subject, drop a course, or take a leave of absence without having to pay for the subject or having it recorded on your academic transcript. It is also the deadline for enrollment in a subject, although it is recommended to enroll before the teaching period begins and finalize your enrollment before the last self-enrol date. All census dates are based on the observed time zone in Melbourne.
